It is hard to define just what it is in Lauder's work that makes him so popular. But the secret probably is that he is simply natural, and bubbles over with wit and melody because he can't help it! These records are so natural that the hearer will be simply astonished, every word and whisper being absolutely distinct.

APPEAL FOR PEACE
IS MADE BY TURKEY

Porte Places Itself Unreservedly in Hands of Powers to End Hostilities

London, March 1.—The Turkish government to-day definitely abandoned a prohibitive stipulation in connection with peace and placed itself unreservedly in the hands of the European powers, with a request to conclude peace as advantageously as possible for Turkish interests.

Unless, as has been the case heretofore, Turkey changes her mind before terms can be concluded, it is believed her direct peace negotiations will be resumed speedily, with every prospect of an early settlement of the Turkish-Balkan War.

Appeals to Powers.
Rome, March 1.—The Turkish ambassador to-day informed the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Marquis di Sanguinetti, that Turkey appeals to the powers to negotiate a peace settlement.

Turks Defeated.
Athens, Greece, March 1.—A detachment of 300 Turkish infantrymen fought for six hours against a body of Greek troops near Jannina to-day, and surrendered only after 112 Turks had been killed, including eight officers.

The statement received here that the Greeks lost only four wounded, is regarded with skepticism.

PROGRESSIVES IN SADDLE

Battle Will Be Fought for Organization and Committee Powers.

BY P. H. MCGOWAN.

Washington, March 1.—As soon as the friends of Senator Thomas S. Martin had time to get their bearings to-day after the sudden determination yesterday on the part of the Virginia Senator not to allow his name to be presented before the caucus of the Democrats for caucus chairman, they realized that one of the hottest and most interesting political fights in years was on, with Senators Martin, Bryan and Simmons and William J. Kern as the principal participants.

To-day's developments showed very clearly that William J. Bryan means, if possible, through his friend and running mate on the presidential ticket of four years ago, Senator Kern—to force his hand in the Senate whether he goes into the Cabinet or not. This fact has struck the minds of many persons to-day, and Senator Martin's friends are lining up to stand by him.

It also developed that Senator Simmons in all probability will be forced to make good his pre-election statement that if he should not be made chairman of the powerful Committee on Finance he would resign his seat in the Senate and return to his home in North Carolina.

Branch of Faith Alleged.
That there has been a breach of faith on the part of some of those who declared that they would stand by Senator Martin was also one of the developments of the day, and it is quite certain that had all those who promised the Virginian their support rallied to his cause he would now be in the lead for re-election to the position which he now holds, but for which he will not again ask, instead of having had to give way to a man who has been in the Senate only since January, 1911, while he himself has been in congressional harness since 1893—a difference of eighteen years.

That the fight will begin in earnest with the holding of the next caucus on March 5, which Senator Martin has already indicated, is practically settled, not that there will be a fuss over the selection of a chairman, as that matter will now determine itself into a perfunctory affair, but on the fact that the entire machinery of the Senate must be overhauled, and it is anticipated that the progressive and conservative forces will lock horns.

For instance, there must be the selection of a secretary at a salary of $5,000 a year, and other officers all down the line. It is undoubtedly true that the Kern forces will try to run away with these places, and apportion out the good-paying positions among the friends of that faction. But this is only one feature. The big question is whether or not yesterday's victory for the progressives will force the men of the other camp—the conservatives—to yield committee powers. This would be as hard a blow as could fall upon them, and it is a move that will be fought for all it is worth.

When the caucus meets and formally elects Senator Kern as chairman, the progressives will caucus on their own account and decide what the makeup of the committee on committees—or the steering committee—shall be.

Will Be Law of Senate.
Whatever this steering committee shall decide upon and be ratified by law of the Senate so far as the naming of committee members is concerned, and this is now the bone of contention. Stripped of technicalities, the situation presented is that the Kern forces, with full control of the senatorial machinery, will decree that Senators Bacon, Tillman, Simmons, Martin and Bankhead, the real old-timers back seat—that the powerful committee places, which would have gone to them, will go to the Kern element, and that the old guard will have to be satisfied with what it can get under the new regime. Although it is true that for the sake of party harmony there may be concessions on the part of progressives toward the other side, there is no flag of truce yet being waved or anywhere in sight.

It is possible that to obtain the desired result and to make the Wilson administration in the Senate a success, both factions may get together and agree to advance the present ranking Democrats to chairmanships, but if this is done it will be only for party peace that such concessions are made and for no other reason.

With the progressive element firmly in the saddle, it is up to the old guard to quietly and without protest to accept gracefully what it can get. Any other course—open revolt at the new order of things, for instance, and a show of displeasure—would only make the progressives more and more determined to show fight and to make their present victory more apparent than it now is.

May Make Statement.

While neither Senator Martin nor his friends in Congress would discuss the matter in any shape to-day it is hinted that the Virginia Senator may have something interesting to say on the situation within the next day or two. He certainly will, it is believed by those close to him, unless the conservatives are given what they consider to be a fair deal. Although Senator Martin has been downed on the first round does not mean that he has no fight in him or that he will be found flying the flag of truce. The drowning man is Simmons. He must secure the chairmanship of the powerful Finance Committee to keep his pre-election pledge, or admit his utter defeat and resign his commission in the Senate, and it is up to him to carry the fight into the progressive camp or be admittedly beaten.

SEES FRIEND TO RACE

Booker Washington Discusses President-elect's Attitude Toward Race.
Nashville, Tenn., March 1.—Booker T. Washington, the colored educator, in Nashville to-day en route to the State of Washington, where he will conduct a speaking tour, discussed the attitude of President-elect Woodrow Wilson to the colored race. He said that "Mr. Wilson is in favor of the things which tend toward the uplift, improvement and advancement of my people, and at his hands we have nothing to fear. My belief is that the next President of the United States is one of the best friends of negro education that has ever occupied the presidential chair."

HOUSE REPASSES WEBB LIQUOR BILL OVER TAFT'S VETO

References between the two houses to-morrow.

"Dead as Door Nail."

Washington, March 1.—The public building bill is dead—dead as a door nail," announced Chairman Burnett, of the House Public Buildings Committee, to-night. Mr. Burnett said that the Senate had insisted upon its amendment for many millions of dollars for various projects and that it had been impossible to reach an agreement.

By a vote of 37 to 26 the Senate at 11:30 o'clock to-night refused to recede upon consideration of the conference report on the rivers and harbors appropriation bill. The negative vote was due to a combination of general opposition to the part of some Senators and of a desire to take up the general deficiency appropriation bill and the seamen's servitude bill. The action was generally considered as indicating the ultimate failure of the river and harbor bill at this session, although some of its friends refused to accept this view.

Compensation Bill Passes.
[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, March 1.—By a vote of 217 to 51 the House to-night passed the workmen's compensation bill. The Senate passed this measure last session and it now goes to the President.

Many Appointments Confirmed.
Washington, March 1.—The first break of importance in the Senate deadlock was made to-day, when the Senate, in a two-hour executive session, confirmed a large number of appointments made in the army, navy, marine corps, revenue cutter service, public health service and diplomatic service. The confirmations were made with a general discussion, as the result of a gentleman's agreement that appointments of this character, involving promotion and the lines of service, should not be held up.

An agreement was reached for confirmation of large numbers of appointments in the executive session which began at 3 o'clock, and a little after 5 o'clock, but was resumed again at 8, with the purpose of clearing up the uncontested appointments.

The confirmations during the afternoon session numbered more than 350, embraced in the army, navy and other established services of the United States.

Senator Cummins made a vigorous protest in the executive session against the plan to confirm post-office appointments only in the home cities of Senators. His objections did not defeat the plan, however.

Among the diplomatic nominations confirmed were:
Larz Anderson, ambassador to Japan.
Theodore Marburg, of Maryland, minister to Belgium.
Montgomery Schuyler, Jr., of New York, minister to Ecuador.

Charles Campbell, Jr., of Virginia, secretary of legation and consul-general to Roumania, Servia and Bulgaria.

More Money for Tumulty.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Washington, March 1.—The Republican managers of the general deficiency bill in the Senate this afternoon in the President's salary of the secretary of the Treasury from $6,000 to $7,500 a year and made provision that this hereafter should be the permanent compensation. The same Democratic member of the Appropriations Committee who a year ago insisted that the salary should be reduced urged to-day that the increase be granted.

Senator Jonathan Bourne wanted the fixed at $10,000 a year, but this was not agreed to by the committee. The House will agree to the Senate bill, and Secretary Tumulty will receive the same salary that Secretary Hilges has drawn since he assumed the office.

Taft Signs Bill.

Washington, March 1.—The bill for physical valuation of railroads as a basis of rate regulation was signed by the President to-night, and became a law. When this information was received at the capital it was arranged that an amendment to the general deficiency bill appropriating $500,000 to carry the new statute into effect.

Will Work on Sunday.

Washington, March 1.—After working until nearly 1 o'clock this morning passing the workmen's compensation law and handling a mass of routine appropriation bills, the House took a recess until 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Majority Leader Underwood announced during the evening session that it would be necessary for the House to resort to the unusual expedient of meeting for regular business on Sunday, owing to the situation as to the big supply bills. To obviate the necessity of a Sunday appearing as a legislative day in the record, recess was taken, preserving the legislative day of March 1.

Miller died twelve days ago in his home, in the hills back of Berkeley. Ever since then his wife says she has been waiting to hear from him. She

How to Escape the Bad Effects of March Weather

MRS. CHARLES ANSPAUGH.

March is the critical month of the whole year. It is the month of ill health and blizzards. February has been with its epidemics of grip and colds, which have sown the seeds of disease and derangement of the body. March is a month of untoward weather, but is the month that reaps the consequences of February derangements. If one succeeds in getting through with the month of March even tolerably well, the rest of the year will be comparatively easy.

Every household ought to be provided with Peruna. If you have had grip during the winter and have not recovered your former health and strength you surely need Peruna.

Peruna restores the appetite. Peruna increases the digestive powers. Peruna regulates the bowels. Peruna strengthens the nerve centres. Peruna does all these things, and with-out any untoward results. No family should allow themselves to be without Peruna during the month of March.

The symptoms of grip are: First, begins with a cold not due to exposure. Second, a number of people attacked at same time. Third, confined chiefly to head and respiratory organs. Fourth, accompanied by high fever for several days. Fifth, serious after effects. Convalescence slow.

The experiences of the people that Peruna is a remedy for grip have been uniformly good. Very few if any have been disappointed in Peruna as a grip remedy.

Mr. C. O. Peterson, of No. 3327 N. Hamilton Ave., Chicago, Illinois, had a severe attack of the grip, which left him very weak. He was in a condition that he was unable to do any work. He began to take Peruna and in two weeks was strong and well. The consequence is he always keeps Peruna in his home.

Mr. George E. Pratt, No. 828 19th St., Moline, Illinois, writes concerning his wife: She had had the grip. After using two bottles of Peruna she was greatly relieved. So much so that she continued the treatment for a short time, when she was thoroughly cured. After noting the effect that Peruna had in the case of his wife Mr. Pratt took the medicine himself for the grip. Not, however, until after he had taken several other remedies without any improvement. The Peruna completely cured him.

Mr. C. J. Powers, No. 1631 W. Hams St., Denver, Colorado, says that the grip had left him very weak. He took Peruna and at once he began to gain strength and was finally cured. Since then when I do not feel well or have taken a cold I always take Peruna, and it never disappoints me in its action.

Thus we might go on indefinitely to recite cases where people have suffered from the after effects of grip. Then they have resorted to this remedy or that remedy. Finally they have been constrained to take Peruna. The result is always favorable.

If the people generally understood the benefit of Peruna no household would be without it, during the month of March especially, when climatic diseases prevail so extensively.

Mrs. Charles Anspaugh, R. F. D. 1, Kimmell, Indiana, whose portrait is given above, writes: "Peruna has been a godsend to me. I can feel safe in saying that it saved my life as I was all run down and was just miserable when I commenced taking your Peruna, but am on the road to recovery now. I cannot thank you too much."

has always possessed medumistic powers, she claims, and her husband had always been a student of the psychic.

Her daughter, Juanita, doubts the genuineness of the message. The message which the poet is supposed to have sent from the portals of heaven came to Mrs. Miller, according to her account, while she sat in front of her home looking at the lovely scenes of earth that her husband had loved so well.

"Do you not feel my presence?" "Do you not feel my presence?" she said. "I will reach upward and attain to heights which I could not reach when encumbered and enchained by the grosser elements."

"The shackles have fallen off, and I am free. I stand with hands raised in worship to the throne of Grace. You will hear from me again and more fully than in the past."
